

DEATHS OF FOUR IN BAYONNE HOME ARE INVESTIGATED

Woman Who Nursed Members of Own Family Held on Theft Charge in Andover.

Bayonne police, at the request of Andover, Mass., authorities, are investigating the deaths of four members of the Ames Wilkins family in the New Jersey town, at lot whom, they say, were nursed by a daughter, Mrs. Beanie Mae Skeels. She is now under arrest in Andover on the technical charge she took some jewelry belonging to Miss Florence M. Gay, on of her patients who died there. The stomach of Miss Gay was sent to Harvard for analysis of its contents, but the prosecutor refuses to make public the findings. Bayonne police are awaiting orders now to examine the four bodies of Mrs. Skeels' relatives. All died from arterio-sclerosis. All died from arterio-sclerosis, they said.

William Wilkins, a brother of Mrs. Skeels, to-day said the whole case would collapse. He claimed a woman who was left out of a will, he said, for the police investigation.

Mrs. Skeels was arrested on the eve of her wedding to Alfred J. Lundgren, manager of a chain of grocery stores around Andover. Jersey police state first an Andover detective came to town, laid certain facts before them, made a preliminary investigation and asked them to continue it.

Capt. John J. Riney, in charge of the Bayonne detectives investigating the deaths there, said his men had found the following facts:

Amos Wilkins, father of the woman, died Sept. 14, 1916, of arterio-sclerosis. He was nursed by the daughter.

Mrs. Elizabeth Wilkins, the mother, died April 22, 1916, of the same trouble. She was nursed by the daughter.

Mrs. Nellie Wilkins, a sister-in-law, died July 5, 1918, of chronic interstitial, or nephritis. She was nursed by Mrs. Skeels.

Albert Wilkins, a brother, died July 7, two days later, of gastric interstitial. He was nursed by his sister. Police declare the woman gave her age as thirty-five, but said they found records in her home showing she was fifty-two years old.
